

Scenario Discussion Points:

Note: Numbers relate to drama scenario cards

1. Who knows how to play basketball? Who taught you how to play? Why might someone not know how to play?
2. Why might a student not want to go back to class?
  - Some students find it hard to not finish a game or sequence of things they are doing.
3. Do you remember when you first came to school and had to learn your way around? Who showed you?
4. If you know how to play soccer who taught you? Or how did you learn?
5. Why might someone (teacher or student) not hear the bell?
  - This might be due to older age, having an ear infection, having a cold/flu or auditory processing disorder or congenital hearing impairment.
6. Reasons for not knowing how to make friends? Does anyone else find this tricky?
  - They may not have had the chance to spend time with other people much before, or do not know how to start a conversation with someone new.
7. Why do you think someone might not be able to use the stairs?
  - They might have a broken leg, sprained ankle or use a wheelchair etc.
8. Why may someone want to play a game without talking?
  - Students who may want some quiet while they play, students who like miming, students who are non verbal, a student who likes the quiet so they can concentrate on the game better. Often students also like to play alongside others but not necessarily with them.
9. Why may a person not speak the same language as you?
  - Cultural differences, students with different language-speaking families, students who are from refugee or immigrant backgrounds. Wouldn't it be great to learn more about someone else's culture!
10. What are the rules of handball?
  - Are there certain ways you use your hand to hit the ball?

11. Does any one person or team win all the time?

- No. Playing a game isn't really about winning but more about the fun of playing. Spending time with others and improving on your own skills.

12. Why might someone not know what game to play?

- They might be having a hard time choosing from so many games or might be bored with the games available.

13. We all lose things or forget things sometimes. Could you ask someone to help you find them?

- It could be a lunchbox, toy, jumper, shoes, socks.

Reflection:

Remind the class that we all need assistance, ideas or help sometimes. Whether it be in the playground, in the class, or outside of school.

- Maybe Johnny found Alice's lunch box she lost by quickly zooming through the playground on his wheelchair.
- Grace is really excited because she didn't know what game to play and was bored with the others. Then Advika, a student from another country, taught her a new game, which they played together.
- Laf showed the new student Jesse around the school and then Jessie taught him how to play handball. They both made a new friend.
- Shari, who didn't know how to make friends, helped Kia up the stairs, and then they sat and drew on her cast together.
